View Online

To get the most out of your studies and to meet the requirements of your assignments you will need to read up and reflect on the subjects that we cover during the taught days.

In this reading list we offer some guidance on reading and self-study before and during all the three modules. The material is organised into four main sections:

SECTION 1: Recommended reading for modules one, two and three;

SECTION 2: Further reading: Books and articles for module ones, two and three;

SECTION 3: Useful websites;

SECTION 4: Study skills.

Overall throughout the course we will be referring to examples and tools developed across different disciplines and would recommend that you take advantage of picking up approaches from areas other than your own, as there is much to learn.
